Winter Has Pushed Into State Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Winter pushed into Arkansas today bringing snow and ice to the northern half of the state.

Up to three inches of snow was expected in Northwest Arkansas today, according to the Weather Bureau.

Several schools were closed in the northwest section of the state this morning and more were expected to close Tuesday as driving conditions become hazardous, the bureau said.

The bureau said that all streets and highways in the northern one-fourth of the state should become very slick by this evening.

State Police said this morning that roads in Northwest Arkansas already are becoming hazardous.

The bureau said that the southern half of the state would have cloudy skies with a possibility of showers through Tuesday.

Highs Sunday ranged from 42 at Harrison to 60 at Texarkana. Overnight lows included 35 at Fayetteville, 29 at Harrison, 38 at Pine Bluff, 44 at Texarkana, 38 at El Dorado, 28 at Memphis, 34 at Little Rock and 41 at Fort Smith.

Precipitation for the 24-hour period that ended at 7 a.m. today included .01 of an inch at Harrison and a trace at Fayetteville.

Regality of Drinks Law Is Upheld

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office today upheld the constitutionality of the 1969 mixed drink law.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael Barber said in an opinion that he knew of no constitutional provision with which the law conflicted.

The opinion went to Mayor William Browning of Yellville, who had questioned provisions of the law that permit the dispensing of liquor in dry areas.

Browning wrote that he had been asked to make the request "to consider ways of protesting the entrance of a private club to sell alcoholic beverages by the drink."

The 1969 law permits the public sale of liquor by the drink in wet areas if the voters approve in a local option election. Other provisions permit the licensing of private, nonprofit clubs to dispense mixed drinks in any area of the state, including dry counties.

To Prove His Worth

Police said a large quantity of money was involved, but store officials would not disclose the amount.

Winson B. Barber, 42, of Benton said that two masked gunmen took the money and fled in a 1963 model station wagon.

U.S. Accused by Russia of Interference

MOSCOW (AP) — Accusing the United States of armed interference in Laos, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin has told President Nixon all American bombing of Laotian soil must stop before the Laotians can begin peace talks.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Kosygin had written Nixon "in view of the aggravation of the situation in Laos as a result of the U.S. armed interference and since the neutrality of Laos is envisaged by the 1962 Geneva agreements."

"The restoration of peace should be started with consultations between political forces," the letter continued.

"The Central Committee of the Patriotic Front of Laos (the Pathet Lao) advanced recently a concrete and quite realistic five-point program of settling the problem."

"It is necessary first of all for the United States to stop speedily the escalation of the war and stop fully and unconditionally the bombings of Laotian territory. Only this can create conditions for the interested Laotian sides to meet."

Kosygin said his government would welcome contact between Prince Souvanna Phouma, the Laotian premier, and his adversary and half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, the titular leader of the Pathet Lao.

"This is the road that can assure, in the event of the ending of the American intervention, a relaxation of tension in that country," Kosygin wrote.

ing of trying to break up the Maritime resolution, which is already composed of at least three distinct parts.

It would repeal Tonkin and three other cold war grants of authority, set up a study of the still existing 1950 Korean War state of emergency and declare support for U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam and the need for a broadened South Vietnamese government.

In a letter to Fulbright, the State Department said repeal of the resolutions was up to Congress—a reversal of its previous opposition to such action. It also welcomed the study of the 1950 emergency, and proposed changes in the Vietnam sections of the Maritime proposal to remove any implications the United States is dissatisfied with the present Vietnamese government.

Suez Canal Port Just a Ghost Town

SUEZ, Egypt (AP) — This port at the southern end of the paralyzed Suez Canal is a ghost town today.

Before the 1967 war, the population was 250,000, the canal was handling 57 ships a day, the refinery was operating at full capacity and tourists from passenger ships thronged the streets.

Now after more than a year of frequent bombing and shelling only a few thousand persons remain. Many of these are soldiers who patrol rubble-filled streets or sit in machine-gun nests atop windowless five-story apartment buildings scarred by shrapnel.

Whole streets have been almost obliterated. The refinery is closed down, its storage tanks rusting, blackened by fire and blasted out of shape.

Egyptian officials say Israeli bombardments have killed 400 civilians and destroyed 3,000 buildings, including schools, mosques, churches and hospitals.

The people began leaving Suez in September 1967 when Israeli guns first pounded the town in reprisal for the sinking of the destroyer Eilat.

The nearest Israeli artillery battery is a mile from the center of town. In some places only 100 yards separate Egyptian troops from Israeli troops across the canal in Port Taufiq.

The only ships in the canal are 15 vessels trapped when fighting broke out in June 1967. Fourteen of them set idly in Great Bitter Lake, 25 miles north of Suez. The other, the American freighter, Observer, is 50 miles south of Port Said, the canal's northern end.

Although one bridge is down and two sunken ships block the waterway, Egyptian experts say it would take only six months to open the canal. Removal and dredging operations, they add, would cost $30 million.

na, whose husband police killed last month, took her three children with her to Mexico City.

The other prisoner freed was Shizuo Ozawa, 25, said to be a member of the popular Revolutionary Vanguard, the organization which kidnapped Kuchel.

He was arrested last month on political charges.

The diplomat's kidnappers said they were prepared to kill Kuchel and die with him if the government did not meet their demands.

ly overturned on appeal.

Carswell, after his nomination, repudiated the 1948 remarks, made while campaigning for the Georgia legislature.

In testimony before the Judiciary Committee he denied that avoiding desegregation was the intent of the group that incorporated the club.

Backers of the nomination say if his entire record is taken into consideration his decisions show a middle of the road approach to civil and human rights.

Carswell, a 50-year-old native of Irwinton, Ga., served as U.S. attorney for the northern district of Florida from 1953 to 1958, as U.S. district judge for the same area from 1958 to 1969 and was appointed to the Appeals Court in June last year.

The vacancy on the Supreme Court has existed since Fortas resigned under fire in May 1969.

Maravich to Return to Shooting

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The day of Pete Maravich, the playmaker, seems over. The Oklahoma Sooners can look forward Tuesday night to the return of Pistol Pete, the shooter.

It isn't that Maravich isn't the best player in college basketball; it's just that without his shooting up to his nation-leading 46.6 point-per-game average, the Louisiana State Tigers barely got by heavy underdog Georgetown, 83-82 Sunday in the first round of the National Invitational Tournament.

Oklahoma just managed itself by slipping past Louisville 74-73 in Sunday's second game.

So it will be the Tigers and Sooners in Tuesday's double-header nightcap after tournament favorite Marquette faces Utah in the first game.

The most local quarter-finals begin tonight as St. John's of New York meets Georgia Tech after first-round upsets Army and Manhattan clash in the opener of a twinbill.

The semifinals are Thursday and the nationally televised final Saturday afternoon.

Maravich, who holds the career college scoring record, had been waiting all season for this first Madison Square Garden appearance, and New Yorkers had been waiting impatiently to see this much-publicized three-time All-American.

In fact, a national television audience was also watching with the 16,021 in the stands, but Maravich proved a disappointment, as he only took 16 shots, managed only 20 points—only once has he scored less in a college game—and lost the ball several times while dribbling.

"We told Pete not to do any shooting," exclaims his father, Press Maravich, who also coaches the Tigers. "He was to be the playmaker."

But Pete hit only six field shots, sank only eight-of-12 free throw tries and managed only five assists.

Still, it was Pete's two free throws with nine seconds left that gave the Tigers an uncatchable 63-60 lead after his brief spurt of nine points and two half court passes for baskets had put LSU 21-8, ahead to stay 73-65.

The LSU big men did do their job as Danny Hester scored 30 points, Al Sanders 15 and Bill Newton 11, and they also controlled the backboards against foul-plagued Georgetown, 18-8, whose Art White scored 28.

The Sooners, now 19-8, one of the unheralded teams of the tournament, were no ball of fire either in their first NIT appearance, but Garfield Heard's 34 points and a Louisville drought pulled Oklahoma through.

The Cardinals, closing at 18-9, managed only two points in the last-second basket—in the final four minutes and 18 seconds.

Searcy Wins State AA Cage Title

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Number one ranked Searcy dumped in 15 free throws in the final three minutes of the game to defeat Altheimer 63-57 in the finals of the state Class AA basketball tournament in Little Rock Saturday night.

Sam Bradley hit 11 of 12 at the free throw line in those closing minutes after Altheimer had cut the lead to seven points.

Lonnie Webber scored 27 points for Searcy and Herman Williams paced Altheimer with 15.

The victory was Searcy's 35th of the season.

Webber was named the outstanding player in this year's AA tourney.

Other members on the all-state squad were Sam Bradley of Searcy, McConico Creggett, Sam Weatherspoon and Roy Bishop of Altheimer, Bob Forester and Steve Hogan from Newport, Mike Martin from Camden, Donald Smith from Harrison, Schular Rowland from Marvell, Bill Vining of Arkadelphia and Shady Patton from Camden Fairview.

Pork Swimmers Are Third in Dallas Meet

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Southern Methodist's crack swimming team made it 14 South-west Conference championships in a row Saturday, and coach Red Barr added a fitting postscript, "There's no question that this is my best team."

The Pork swimmers scored 725 points—largest point production ever for a SWC meet—to completely outdistance the rest of the field. The Mustangs won 15 of the 18 events in the three-day meet.

Texas was far back in second place with 390 1/2 points followed by Arkansas 274 1/2, Texas A&M, 195 1/2, Texas Tech 181 1/2, Rice, 54, and Texas Christian 28. Baylor did not compete.

SMU sophomore Jerry Heind-enreich set a record of 1:57.1 in the 200 yard individual medley, tied his WWC record of 1:53.7 in the 200 yard freestyle, and won the 100 yard freestyle in 46.8.

Olympian Ronnie Mills, an SMU freshman, set conference records of 53.7 in the 100 yard backstroke and 1:53.8 in the 200 yard backstroke.

Other double winners in the meet were Charles Minder of SMU in the 100 and 200 yard butterfly, SMU's Cal Look, who won the one and three meter diving events and Texas' Frank Salzhandler, who won the 100 and 200 yard breaststroke.

In other SWC record performances:

- Bruce Robinson of Texas won the 400 yard individual medley in 4:18.2.
- SMU's 800 yard freestyle relay team of Paul Tietze, Fred Schlicher, Steve Boster, and Heindenreich, won in 7:50.1.
- Salzhandler lowered the 200-yard breaststroke record to 2:11.7.
- SMU finished the 400 yard free relay in 3:08.4.

Baylor will be host to Arkansas, Rice and Texas in one meet and Texas Tech, SMU and Texas A&M will compete with Texas Christian at Fort Worth.

The Aggies, who recently defended their Border Olympics title, won a triangular meet with North Texas and Rice Saturday with A&M freshman Marvin Mills turning in the highlight by defeating the Aggies' ace sprinter Rockie Woods in the 100 yard dash.

Both runners were clocked at 9.7 but Mills got the judges' decision.

In other meets during the weekend, Texas Christian defeated SMU and Arkansas in a triangular meet at Dallas; Texas easily defeated Texas Tech and Baylor in a meet at Lubbock; and Northeast Louisiana State won its fifth straight All College meet at East Texas State.

TCU sprinter Donny Waugh won the 220 and 440 yard dashes to highlight the Frogs' victory. TCU finished with 77 1/2 points

Jacksonville Hottest NCAA Team

By SHEIL MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Artis Gilmore and Pembroke Burrows, Jacksonville's two 7-footers, suddenly look a lot taller to St. Bonaventure.

The Bonnies, shattered by the loss of All-American center Bob Lanier, are suddenly the underdogs against Jacksonville in their NCAA semifinal Thursday night (7:40 p.m., EST) at College Park, Md.

The fourth-ranked Dolphins, college basketball's Cinderella team, surprised top-ranked Kentucky 106-100 Saturday to reach the round of four, while the Bonnies beat Villanova 97-94.

Lanier was injured midway through the second half, after scoring 26 points in the East Regional final at Columbia, S.C. Lanier underwent successful surgery for torn ligaments in his right knee Sunday in Buffalo, N.Y.

The Bonnies, 25-1, went through most of the season using only six men. With Lanier out, the tallest, 6-foot-5 forward Matt Gantt, has shifted to center.

The Dolphins, buoyed by their stunning victory over Kentucky, in the Midwest Regional final at Columbus, Ohio, now are only two steps away from a shot at the national championship, with UCLA the probable opponent in the final game next Saturday afternoon.

The Bruins, striving for their fourth straight national title, routed Utah State 101-79 in the West Regional final at Seattle. The second-ranked Bruins, 26-2, face fifth-ranked New Mexico State, which whipped Drake 87-78 in the Midwest Regional final at Lawrence, Kan.

UCLA eliminated the Aggies for the past two years when the Aggies were in the West region but Bruins Coach John Wooden isn't underestimating them.

"They have a senior team and I know they'll be really inspired," Wooden said.

In the NIT tournament in New York Sunday, Pistol Pete Maravich dropped two foul shots with nine seconds left to play in LSU's 83-82 first-round bludgeoning against Georgetown. Those two clutch shots won it for LSU, in what otherwise was lackluster game for Maravich. He scored only 20 points, the second lowest total of his three-year varsity career.

In the other NIT game Sunday, Oklahoma edged Louisville 74-73, with the Sooners' Garfield

Lotz in Key Victory at Pensacola

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Lotz turned to golf because he was told to, almost quit and wouldn't want to do it all over again.

"Our dad told us to stick to golf and stay away from baseball," the personable, 27-year-old Lotz said Sunday after scoring his biggest victory in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

Lotz, the son of a former Pacific Coast League pitcher, came on the tour along with brother John in 1964 and didn't make more than $3,000 in his next three seasons.

"It was pretty miserable," he said. "If I had to do it over again, well, I don't think I'd do it."

He won about $15,000 the next year—"just about made expenses"—vaulted to $23,000 the next season, $38,000 last year, including a victory in the $50,000 Alameda County Open, and then came into his own this season.

"For the last four weeks, he's been the best player on the tour—head and shoulders above everyone else," said Ron Cerrudo, a long-time friend and the man who beat him for the title in the San Antonio Open.

Lotz was second in that one, skipped the next tournament and finished fourth last week. That gave him winnings of $49,000 in his last three starts and pushed him into the No. 1 spot on the money winning list at $54,000.

Lotz, who has been under 70 in 10 of his last 11 competitive rounds, had a final 68 and finished at 275, nine under par and three strokes ahead of Dave Stockton, who took second with a 67.

Lotz started the day in a tie for the top with veteran Bill Collins, took sole control when Collins bogeyed the first hole and was in command the rest of the way. He stretched his lead to four strokes at one point and the last challenge failed when Ray Floyd bogeyed the 16th hole and took a double bogey six on the 17th.

Floyd finished with a 72 for 280. British Open champ Tony Jacklin, with a 71, and Homero Blancas, with a sparkling 64, tied at 281, followed by John Miller and Bob Charles, 282.

South African Gary Player had a 73 for 283 and Arnold Palmer had a 69 for 284. Collins, troubled with an aching ankle, limped in with a fat 78 and finished well back at 285.

Bob Stinson's Awesome Power Demonstrated

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Stinson's awesome power display Sunday might have won him a job with the Los Angeles Dodgers but it certainly didn't help Mike Whitson's chances any.

Stinson, a rookie catcher trying to stick with the parent Dodgers, crashed two home runs in one inning—an explosive nine-run 17th inning—leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 14-6 exhibition baseball victory over the Washington Senators.

A switch hitter, Stinson, batting left-handed, opened the big inning with a slam over the right field wall off Whitson. As the Dodgers batted around, Stinson came up again and bombed another clout, this one a two-run shot, capping the uprising. And again it was off right-hander Whitson, who absorbed all the punishment in the inning.

Stinson, who hit .281 at Spokane last year, cracked only six homers for the Pacific Coast League club in 117 games and none in a brief stay with the Dodgers at the end of the season.

In another wild extra inning affair, the Oakland A's exploded for seven runs in the 11th inning in stopping Seattle's B squad 12-7. Joe Rudi, Tito Francona and rookie Jim Driscoll slammed homers for the A's.

Non-roster rookie catcher Bart Zeller drilled an 11th-inning single, snapping a 1-1 tie and sending the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Another receiver, veteran John Edwards, knocked in the winner with an eighth-inning single in Houston's 5-4 victory over Minnesota. It was the winless Twins eighth straight loss.

Ron Woods slammed a two-run triple in the 11th inning, sending the New York Yankees to a 9-8 triumph over Montreal. Ron Fairly belted a home run for the Expos.

The Chicago Cubs rode the home run punch of Johnny Callison and Billy Williams to a 7-5 decision over San Francisco.

Seattle exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning and coasted past San Diego, 8-1.

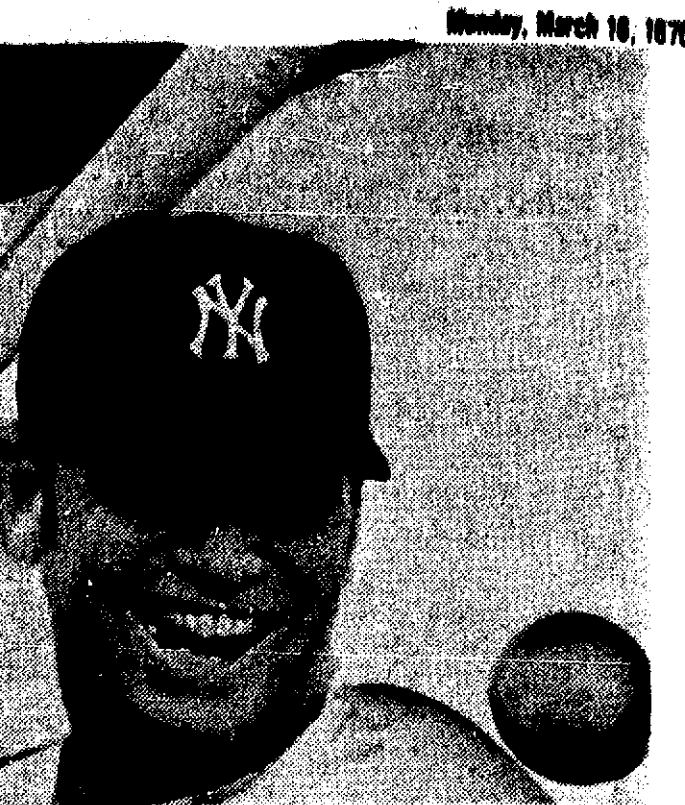

Danny Breeden's run-scoring single capped a three-run ninth inning flurry by Cincinnati in the Reds' 7-6 triumph over the New York Mets. Joe Foy had a homer for New York.

Bob Robertson knocked in one run and Angel Manuel two as the Pittsburgh Pirates came up with three ninth-inning rallies in their 6-4 victory over Mexico City.

Bob Mitchell's RBI proved in the eighth inning proved the winner as Atlanta swept past Baltimore 8-7. The Braves got home runs from Orlando Cepeda, Rico Carty and Hank Aaron. It was Aaron's fifth of the spring.

Deron Johnson and Larry Hise supplied the power in Philadelphia's 7-5 triumph over Kansas City. Johnson slammed two homers and Hise one.

Gary Peters, Lee Stange and Jose Santiago limited Detroit to three hits and Rico Petrocelli led Boston's attack with four hits in the Red Sox 4-1 victory over the Tigers.

Williams Has Faith in Senators

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — What happened to the Senators last year?
Wherever Washington Manager Ted Williams goes in spring training that's the first question popped at him. Williams, shying away from the credit, explains it this way:
"Last year for the first time they realized they were that good."
What's missing in that pat answer is Williams—for it's generally acknowledged that last year for the first time the Senators realized they were that good because Williams told them they were that good.
It's difficult, therefore, not to go along when Williams says this year's club "will be better. We can make runs—we proved that. But we've got to have improved pitching. If we get that we could be a factor."
That, however, seems a long shot—even if the opinion does come from a guy who last year, in his rookie season as a manager, transformed the perennial cellar-dwellers into a club that finished over .500 for the first time since 1952.
What happened to the Senators last year was that, after finishing the 1968 season with a 65-96 won-lost record, Williams talked, talked, talked, taught, taught, taught, and brought in a fourth-place club with a .86-76 mark.
But the talking and teaching are only two of the three Ts. The other T is for talent—and as much as Williams seems to be able to get the most out of a player there just do not seem to be enough quality players to get the most out of.

There is hitting and power in an outfield of Frank Howard, the towering slugger; Del Unser, and Lee Maye. And first baseman Mike Epstein and third baseman Ken McMullen provide much the same.
Howard was the big stick for the Senators last year with 48 homers, 111 runs batted in and a .296 batting average. Epstein, under Williams' handling, finally began to live up to his credentials with 30 homers and 85 RBI to go with a .278 average.
McMullen provided 19 homers and 87 RBI with a .272 average. Unser swung a light but consistent .286 bat and Maye impressed Williams enough after being acquired from Cleveland to become the favorite for the third spot.
At shortstop is Ed Brinkman, labeled good-field, no-hit, who last year under Williams pulled his average up to .267.
"I consider that a pretty good hitting line-up," Williams said.
And, hope-fully, there will be improvement at the two other positions, second base and catching. At second holdovers Bernie Allen and Tim Cullen will be battling Dave Nelson, another Cleveland acquisition, who could add one missing commodity—speed.
The catching department, which provided little hitting last season, has been bolstered by the addition of John Roseboro from Minnesota. He likely will share the duties with Paul Casanova.

As for pitching, the one known commodity is Dave Bosman, who posted a 14-5 record last season and had a 2.19 earned run average—the best in the American League. But there was little but disappointment behind Bosman.
"(Joe) Coleman and (Jim) Hannan," said Williams, "are both better than they were last year. Together they won 19. And do you know how many they lost? They lost 19. A lot depends on how much better they are."
The fourth starter likely will be George Brunet, who was 8-12 with California and Seattle last season but has Williams' eye. Also scheduled for a long look is Jan Dukes, who came up at the end of last year and put together a 2.45 ERA in eight games.
The cast taken as a whole, however, likely will be much the same as last season and, therefore, it seems very likely the finish will be also.

Cool Hand, Terlago in Warnings
By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cool Hand and Terlago are the latest to put in their two cents worth in thoroughbred racing's purse-and-prestige-rich—and currently wide-open—3-year-old division.
Cool Hand, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John C. Maher, won the first division of the San Felipe Handicap in a three-horse blanket finish Saturday at Santa Anita.
Then Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Agnew's Terlago beat favored George Lewis in the second section of the 1-16-mile race that is a stepping-stone for the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby March 28.

In another big race Saturday, Sam Gray's and George Schmiedeser's 5-year-old Etony, ridden by Phil Rubbio, won the $75,000 New Orleans Handicap at the Fair Grounds by two lengths over Vif, with Otomano II third. The winner covered 1 1/4 miles in 1:49 1-5 for a winning mutual payoff of $36.
Jerry Lambert got Cool Hand, 115 pounds, home by a nose over Rex C. Ellsworth's Plenty Kid, 117, with Nelson B. Hunt's Sir Wiggle, 117, another three-quarters of a length back, in the nine-horse, $38,050 first division of the San Felipe.
Terlago, 118, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, got home by 3 1/2 lengths over George Lewis, 122, with Robert E. Hibbert's Wilowick, 114, third, in the eight-horse, $47,550 section.
Cool Hand paid $13.20 and Terlago $7.40. Each division was timed in 1:41 1-5 for 1-16 miles.

Larry Adams boot James Cox Brady's favored Jungle Cove to a six-length victory over Maternill Farm's Zarco in the $48,650 Canadian Turf Handicap at Gulfstream Park. Hillena Stable's Elegant Heir was third in the 1-16-mile grass race timed in 1:52 4-5.
Calumet Farm's Best Turn rushed up on the outside and won the $7,350 Paumonok Handicap at Aqueduct as William T. Pascoe's Gaelic Dancer finished fourth, the first time in eight career starts he was not finished first. However, once he was disqualified and placed second.
In other national features, Farouk Pate, $7.40, won the $29,570 Chaffin Stakes at Pimlico. Admiral's Ship-By, $4.60, won the $20,000-added Bobel Handicap at Oaklawn Park. Broad Shadows, $14.20, took the Albany Handicap at Golden Gate Fields, and E. Pushed Me, $5.20, won the $6,500 Central Falls Purse at Narragansett Park.

Pacers Cling to First, Rest in Doubt

The Indiana Pacers are up in first place but the rest of the American Basketball Association's playoff scrambles are up in the air.
The powerful Pacers clinched the Eastern Division flag Sunday night with a 114-110 victory over Carolina. The Cougars fell one game behind second-place Kentucky, which trounced Dallas 146-125, and had their lead over fourth-place New York sliced to 1 1/2 games. The Nets were idle.
In the Western Division, Denver whipped Miami 126-111 to remain two games ahead of Washington, which edged New Orleans 124-122. But Dallas' loss to Kentucky dropped the Chaparrals one game behind Washington, bringing up the rear, pulled to within one game of fourth-place New Orleans with a 117-110 triumph over Pittsburgh.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Baltimore 130, Boston 127; Cincinnati 116, Seattle 113; Chicago 130, Milwaukee 107; San Diego 137, Philadelphia 128; Atlanta 126, Phoenix 111 and Los Angeles 105, New York 101.
A 20-foot jump shot by Fred Lewis with 20 seconds left snapped a 110-all tie and gave Indiana its victory over Carolina. Bob Netolicky topped the winners with 28 points and Roger Brown added 23.
Seven players scored in double figures as Kentucky led from the start and crushed Dallas. Darrel Carrier was high with 27 points, Louie Dampier had 24 and Wayne Chapman 23.
Spencer Haywood poured in 48 points, a Jacksonville Coliseum record, as Denver beat Miami. The first pro game played in Jacksonville since the NBA staged several exhibitions in 1966 drew a crowd of 5,116.
Haywood sank his first nine shots and 16 of 28. Don Fritzman led Miami with 35.

finished fourth, the first time in eight career starts he was not finished first. However, once he was disqualified and placed second.
In other national features, Farouk Pate, $7.40, won the $29,570 Chaffin Stakes at Pimlico. Admiral's Ship-By, $4.60, won the $20,000-added Bobel Handicap at Oaklawn Park. Hawks Hot, Lakers Are Stubborn

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Atlanta Hawks are playing it hot and the Los Angeles Lakers are playing it stubborn in the National Basketball Association's Western Division race.
The Hawks whipped Phoenix 126-111 Sunday for their fifth victory in the last six games. Walt Hazzard fired in 36 points, hitting 17-of-23 shots from the field.
The nationally televised game was virtually decided at the start of the second quarter when the Hawks outscored the Suns 9-2 and took a 47-32 lead. The victory lowered the Hawks' magic number to three for the Western Division title.
In Los Angeles five hours later, the Lakers pulled to within a game of the Hawks by beating the New York Knicks 106-101. The Lakers led for the first 49 minutes but then fought off a last-gasp rally by the Knicks, who clinched the Eastern Division title Saturday.
Jerry West scored 36 points for the Lakers and Dave DeBusschere hit 31 for New York.
In other NBA games Sunday, Chicago routed Milwaukee 139-107; Cincinnati edged Seattle 116-113; Baltimore beat Boston 130-127, and San Diego whipped Philadelphia 137-126.
In the American Basketball Association, Indiana beat Carolina 114-110, the Los Angeles Stars defeated Pittsburgh 117-110; Washington topped New Orleans 124-122; Denver beat Miami 126-111, and Kentucky blasted Dallas 146-125.
In the NBA Saturday, the New York Knicks beat San Diego 119-114 and Chicago stopped Detroit 111-90.

Worsley, Orr Arrive in Same Mood

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins and Gump Worsley of the Minnesota North Stars both arrived for their pre-game meetings with teammates Sunday in the same mood—cool.
Orr because that's the way he is and Worsley because he knew he had a night off coming.
Orr, of course, doesn't get nights off. He is one of the finest defensemen to ever play in the National Hockey League and you don't keep talent like that off the ice.
Worsley is a different case. He is 40 years old and a goaltender—a combination of factors that dictates careful use of his talents. He had worked Saturday night in Pittsburgh and figured Sunday in New York would be restful.
Orr, an expected, played. He became the first defenseman in NHL history to reach the 100-point mark as the Bruins tied Detroit 3-3. But Worsley, surprisingly also worked and kicked out 53 shots as Minnesota whipped the Rangers 4-2.
In other games, Montreal and Toronto played a 3-3 tie, Chicago ripped Los Angeles 5-2 and

Milwaukee to Get Another Baseball Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee, which inherited the Braves from Boston in 1953 and lost them to Atlanta four years ago, is about to get another baseball team.
The Associated Press has learned from unimpeachable sources that the financially troubled Seattle Pilots' American League franchise will be shifted to Milwaukee for the start of the 1970 season.
The sources said the current owners, headed by William R. Daley of Cleveland, have the nine American League votes necessary to assure the transfer and the move will be approved at a league meeting Tuesday morning in Tampa, Fla.
In Milwaukee, Allan "Bud" Selig, head of Milwaukee Brewers, Inc., the group which will acquire the Pilots, said he would be in Tampa for Tuesday's meeting.
American League President Joe Cronin said early today in Sarasota, Fla., that the imminent franchise shift was "all news to me. I don't have any information. No vote has been taken. You have more information on this than I have."
Any franchise shift undoubtedly would be followed by a court battle. In fact, a show cause hearing is scheduled in Seattle on Thursday on a temporary order restraining any actions aimed at moving the Pilots out of town.
The order was granted on a suit by Alfred J. Schweppe, a Seattle attorney. The action also named the Bank of California, where Schweppe said his check for two 1970 season tickets was deposited. Schweppe said the suit enjoins the present owners from doing anything to move the franchise before Thursday.
He said the suit does not enjoin the American League from approving the transfer, but does bar action by the owners to carry it out.
Also last week, Seattle, King County and the State of Washington all mapped plans to join in a number of suits aimed at keeping the Pilots in Seattle.
U.S. Sens. Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson, both Washington Democrats, reportedly were ready to introduce legislation in the Congress that would remove baseball's immunity from antitrust laws.
This will mark the second time Milwaukee has become the home of a transplanted baseball team shortly before a new season. The Braves moved out of Boston four weeks before the start of the 1953 campaign.
Daley, the Pilots' principal owner, and his associates paid the American League $6 million for the franchise, which began play last season. They reportedly spent an additional $2 million getting the team and facilities ready.
But the Pilots needed an attendance of 850,000 to break even and drew only 677,944 in antiquated Sicks' Stadium, which seats 28,500. Milwaukee's County Stadium holds 47,000.
Adding to the Pilots' woes, only last Friday a group of Seattle businessmen, rebuffed a month ago in their efforts to buy the team, rejected the American League's proposal to resubmit their non-profit purchase plan with some modifications.
A few days ago when asked if Milwaukee would be ready to take over, Selig was quoted: "When the Braves came in (to Milwaukee) they didn't have any local people to operate the club, they had not negotiated any television contracts or concessions and they they hadn't even rented County Stadium."
"We have an experienced ticket office now. We've negotiated all the TV contracts. We have the stadium. All we need to do is to sell a lot of tickets fast, and we can do that."

FORM CHARTS

California, AL West

PROSPECTUS — Angels have a new manager, Lefty Phillips, and a new left fielder, Alex Johnson, but rest of team remains one of greatest in game. Nobody seems to be able to light a fire under this team—not since Bo Belinsky and Dean Chance left, anyway. Expect another normal year from this club. Still that with 500 for awhile, then fall under it. Meanwhile, the biggest attraction in Anaheim will continue to be Disneyland.

PITCHING — Andy Messersmith didn't win a game last season until June 5. Then he won 15 more, lost 11, finished third in the AL in strike outs fourth in ERA. Could blossom even more this year. Behind him are Rudy May, 10-13, Tom Murphy, 10-16, and Mel Queen, acquired from Cincinnati where he had more trouble. Rookie Lloyd Allen and Greg Garrett also figure. Bullpen has Ken Tatum, 7-2 with 22 saves; Paul Doyle from Atlanta; Eddie Fisher and Jack Fischer. Rating—C-

CATCHING — Joe Accie, who went from Cleveland to Boston to California last year, still has starting job. Tom Egan backs him. Rating—C

INFIELD — Jim Spencer, 254 with 10 HRs, is at first. Sandy Alomar, 248, at second. Onelio Rodriguez, 232, at third. Short stop belongs to Jim Fregosi, coming off a 260 year which is poor for him. Chico Ruiz from Cincinnati and Gordie Lued from Seattle are utilitymen. Nothing more to say. Rating—C-

OUTFIELD — Alex Johnson, who hit .315 at Cincinnati last season, takes over in left. Excellent hitter with good power. Jay Johnstone, who led Angels in hitting last year with .210, is in center. Rick Reichardt moves from left to right. He hit 13 HRs last year, but continues to fall short of expectations. Backups are John Hicks, Roger Repa, and Billy Cowan. Rating—B-

TOP ROOKIES — Walt Woot up from El Paso could stick as pinch hitter. Allen best of poor crop of young hurlers.

Prediction: 4th in AL West

Short Stuff,
Letters on School Taxation

Since we are beginning publication today of letters on the school tax issue a good introductory piece would be this old story about the Arkansas state sales tax, recalled Saturday by "Speedy" Hutson, Hope native who now resides in Little Rock. It was 1935 and Arkansas had just put in force its first sales tax, at 2 per cent. A Texan passing through the state en route to Tennessee was so enraged by the new tax that when he reached the Mississippi bridge at Memphis he threw a silver dollar into the river -- and then swore to friends: "It wouldn't sink until I threw another 2 cents after it."

His egotism is matched by another yarn, homespun by a sponsor who wishes to remain nameless. It goes like this:

The dying man had but one last request -- a magnificent funeral. "I want," he said, "the finest choir on earth: A thousand sopranos, a thousand contraltos -- and a thousand tenors and a thousand baritone."

"But," said a friend, "you forgot the bass."

"No," replied the one about-to-go, "I'll sing bass myself."

Here are the first of the letters we have received on last week's school tax election:

Editor The Star: Congratulations! You've done it again! I'm sorry I don't feel like patting you on the back.

To quote your Monday evening editorial: "It isn't the aim of today's piece to influence voters in this particular school election; we are holding on Tuesday."

Come now! You know that many people do not bother to find out all the facts in advance of an election. Many don't make up their minds until the night before or the day of the election. Therefore, a last minute Editorial "NO" or an ad placed by some committee is one of the most effective means of defeating an issue because it leaves no time for any kind of rebuttal. Many misleading statements and insinuating questions could have been cleared up with "on record" facts... but not at the midnight hour.

True, "the assessment boat is leaking" but I fail to see that it is the responsibility of the "school people" to repair that leak. The "school people" apparently have such little influence on the community that I am amazed that so many parents will entrust children to their care seven hours a day. If that school day were shortened to four hours, we'd probably have to have a special election and then 50 mills wouldn't be so much!

Mr. Washburn, please help us find some way to repair that "boat" before the whole community drowns in shallow water. (Or should I say thinking?) Sincerely,

March 10, 1970
City

(Real name withheld, although signed nickname will be recognized by many.)

Editor The Star: Thank you so very much for quoting our father in last night's Star (March 9 reference to late Dr. Don Smith, 1929 Hope School Board president). He was such a dedicated school patron and received so little recognition and a lot of criticism for all of his efforts. We wish he could be here now, and see all of his predictions, such as consolidation, integration, and vocational training, coming true. He would have been very happy.

He would also have approved fair assessments over raising the millage.

I also was pleased with your article on the paving of water from Millwood. Of course, increased assessments would take care of that. We have such greedy people in Hope, but I love the town with all of its faults.

Thank you so much.

Editor's Note: Technically, ad valorem property tax assessments benefit only the public schools and city and county governments. A Millwood water pipeline would be a self-sustaining project, its bonds supported by water-user revenues.

Rap Brown's Trial to Be Resumed

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Writer
BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Indefinite postponement of H. Rap Brown's trial on charges of arson and inciting to riot was asked by his lawyers today in Harford County Circuit Court.

William M. Kunstler said that because of the bombing last Tuesday night of the Dorchester County courthouse in Cambridge, "now the two counties are linked together by the tragic happening of this case."

Brown's trial was transferred from Cambridge to Bel Air 70 miles across Chesapeake Bay over objections by Kunstler.

A car exploded last Monday night near Bel Air, killing two Negro friends of Brown.

His trial, which started that day, was postponed a week.

"Because these two incidents are linked, this trial is bathed in blood," Kunstler told Circuit Court Judge Harry E. Dyer Jr. at the resumption of proceedings.

Speaking of Ralph Featherstone, 30, one of those killed in the car explosion, Kunstler said: "This case has taken from me a friend of 10 years."

Tears in his eyes and his voice cracking, Kunstler said, "Your honor, I cannot go on any longer."

His legal associate Carl Broege then took up the plea for further postponement in the trial. Howard Moore of Atlanta, lawyer for Julian Bond in his court fight against being denied a seat in the Georgia Legislature, also was at the defense counsel table.

Brown himself remained absent and unheard from since the trial started.

While Brown's lawyers argued in a courtroom packed with 100 persons, half of them representing the news media, a score of Negroes paraded and chanted outside in this normally quiet town of about 5,000.

They marched orderly around in a circle chanting, "Power to the people" and "Black, black power for the African people."

The charges were placed against Brown after Negroes burned down two blocks of buildings in Cambridge following a speech by him in 1967.

The FBI said Saturday the two men killed in the car blast had been transporting the explosive device.

This incident, along with an explosion about 24 hours later which tore a 30-foot hole in the Dorchester County Courthouse in Cambridge, added tension to the situation. State police were looking for a young white woman in the Cambridge bombing.

Brown is due in court Tuesday or Wednesday, when jury selection is expected to begin, after all defense motions have been heard by Judge Dyer.

As a Taxpayer You Are Spending a Lot of Cash for Some Strange Items

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As a taxpayer this year you are spending billions for defense. You are also buying 155,000 pounds of horseshells, extra stiff.

You are paying millions for foreign aid. And you are buying $106,249 worth of dog repellent. Welfare is a big expense.

$396,004 for an unspecified number of electric erasers is a small one, in comparison.

So is $16,000 for ant and roach bait.

And $82,902 for doorbell rectifiers.

And $27,195 for plastic badges and $25,022 for switch toggles, U.S. 2.

But before writing your congressman, understand the federal government has explanations for these purchases.

For example, the dog repellent is used by postmen.

The $445,448 worth of rectifier hair, extra stiff, black or grey, is used by federal prisoners at Leavenworth, Kan., to make brushes.

Tonkin Gulf Decision Sets Stage for New Policy on Publicity

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. says the Nixon administration decision not to fight repeal of the Tonkin Gulf resolution "sets the stage for a new joint decision on what is going on in Laos."

The Maryland Republican is credited with getting the tacit White House acceptance of his move to set aside the Tonkin Gulf resolution, used by the Johnson administration as the legal basis for massive intervention in Vietnam.

He says he hopes hearings into his repeal move starting today by Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee will lead as well to close examination of U.S.-Laotian involvement.

The hearings are set against a backdrop of continued confusion and differing reports over the American role in the tiny South-east Asian nation that neighbors Vietnam.

After first denying any ground combat troops were in Laos, or that Americans had been killed in ground fighting, the administration has conceded some U.S. casualties in hostile action.

But in no past administration account was there any mention of an incident reported by the Washington Post in today's edition. The newspaper, in an account written from Vientiane by T.D. Allman, said more than 12 Americans were killed two years ago when Communist troops overran a secret U.S. radar installation in northeast Laos, near the North Vietnamese border.

The paper said the incident had been kept secret. There was no immediate administration comment on the Post story.

The Post said the Americans were part of a force operating and guarding the installation, used to guide U.S. aircraft to their targets along the Ho Chi Minh Trail and in North Vietnam and electronically release their bombs by radio.

The Post story said the deaths of the Americans at the secret base occurred March 11, 1968, after several days of heavy fighting.

Last week, after first saying no Americans had been killed in ground combat in Laos, the administration acknowledged that "less than 50" U.S. personnel have died there. It also has conceded more servicemen have died from hostile gunfire than Army Capt. Joseph K. Bush, whose death was confirmed by the White House last week, after accounts were published disclosing his death.

The White House, in an apparent move to head off charges of a credibility gap, also said last week that it would disclose future deaths of Americans killed in Laos and repeated its statement that the U.S. involvement was related directly to the American role in Vietnam.

However, in a Baltimore speech Saturday night, Mathias raised the question whether the United States already is so committed in Laos that Congress couldn't halt further involvement.

"Congress should recognize today," he said, "that a North Vietnamese drive to overrun Laos would endanger so many American lives, would jeopardize so many projects, that it would be extremely difficult for Congress to back a major U.S. intervention."

Fulbright said in a separate interview he is uncertain if it would be wise to include Laos in the Mathias resolution. The chairman has introduced his own proposal that would, in effect, put Congress on record against some of the military activities already being carried on by the United States in Laos.

Fulbright said he was thinking of Tonkin Gulf (on page two)

Kiwanis Show Scheduled Thursday

On Thursday night at 8 o'clock on the stage of City Hall Auditorium the local Kiwanis Club will open their Happy Valley Store for an hour or two. This will be the 27th Annual Show presented by the Kiwanis Club as a benefit for their Youth Programs and Golden Age Club.

Dean "Nathaniel" Murphy, the storekeeper, will be visiting with Harry "Zuke" Hawthorne, Guy "Lem" Griggs, Horace "Snuffy" Fuller, Eddie "Hiram" Whitman, Andy "Shorty" Caldwell, and a few other such characters. One can be assured they will be swapping some choice clean yarns. It will be a show rammled full of good clean fun and some sparkling entertainment specialties, some never before presented by the Kiwanis Show, and some repeated by request. Some comparative new-comers to our town will be using their talents in this year's show. This is only the second show for Mrs. W.H. Peterson, Jr., the accompanist for the choruses and some of the specialties. Mr. Ronnie Cule an accomplished guitarist will be playing with Mrs. Peterson for his first Kiwanis Show. Mrs. Paul (Mary Jane) Henley will be using her talent in this year's show for the first time, and a real talented youngster, Steve Dillard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dillard of Rosston, will be playing a piano solo.

If you would support the Kiwanis Club in their Community Service to Youth, plan now to spend an hour or so at the Happy Valley Store at Hope City Hall Auditorium on Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Food was a big expense. Salted soda crackers at 32 cents per pound cost $15,000. Shelled pecans, unroasted and unsalted, at $1.20 per pound cost $36,000. And there were canned tomatoes at $1.20, cranberry sauce for $673,995, dehydrated onion soup at $161,664 and green olives at $1,232,812.

And for all the busy bureaucrats there was $380,749 worth of leather brief cases.

Senate Set for Debate on Carswell

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell reached the debate stage in the Senate today with opponents promising an exhaustive look at the nominee's controversial record.

Carswell backers, planning to open debate with brief statements, were depending on more of a defensive strategy aimed at countering attacks on their man's civil rights positions and his legal stature.

"We'll answer the criticism and we'll match it blow-by-blow," one Carswell supporter said in advance of the debate.

It is expected to take a week, possibly two, before a vote and the length of the floor discussion on Carswell, a federal appeals court judge who lives in Tallahassee, Fla., was clearly on the minds of strategists for both sides.

The Carswell supporter said "we want any delay or lengthy debate to be clearly the other side's doing."

An opposition leader, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said while he wants an "extremely thorough examination of the record," a week might be adequate.

Hart, ranking Democratic liberal on the Judiciary Committee, added he would fight any filibuster against the nomination, a step being discussed by some opponents.

Another major force against Carswell, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said while a filibuster was possible he considered it a last resort.

With the opening of debate there were the usual declarations of strength by both sides. Supporters have claimed at various points an edge of up to 2 to 1 in their favor. Bayh said FBI data said opponents had about 40 votes in their camp.

An Associated Press poll last week indicated 22 senators publicly on record against Carswell, while 38 had come out in favor. The rest were undecided.

Although some critics have said Carswell is a mediocre judge generally, most of the attacks on the nomination, President Nixon's second attempt to name a Southerner to the seat vacated last year under fire by Abe Fortas, have been leveled against his racial views.

And these attacks focused on three major items: A 1948 campaign speech declaring undying loyalty to white supremacy; his part in the organization of an all-white private golf club in Tallahassee; and the fact that his rulings from the bench on civil rights cases were frequent.

Waldo Officer Killed in Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Maj. Donald Fincher, 41, of Waldo, Ark. was killed Sunday when his bomb-laden U.S. A-1 Skyraider crashed in a field in northeast Thailand.

He was the son of Mrs. Grady Fincher of Waldo.

A United States Embassy spokesman said one Thai was killed and six were injured when a United States ordnance disposal team set off two bombs from the crashed plane.

The spokesman said the team was not aware of the presence of the Thais when the bombs were exploded. The crash occurred six miles south of the United States-Thai air base at Nakorn Phanom.

No further details were given on Fincher's mission.

Two Charged With Murder

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Charles L. Jones, 27, and Leo Williams, 43, both of Little Rock, have been charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of a 6-year-old Little Rock girl.

Dora Marie Lamb was killed Saturday as she stood near the front door of her house.

No Sign of Compliance by Viet Cong

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Cambodia's deadline for withdrawal of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces passed Sunday without any sign of compliance, and North Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were reported to have exchanged fire for four hours just before the deadline.

More than 20,000 Cambodian youths marched before the National Assembly building in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, renewing the public demand that Vietnamese Communist troops leave the country.

The crowd dispersed quietly after an hour of speeches denouncing the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Representatives of the Cambodian Assembly and government met with representatives of the North Vietnamese in Phnom Penh for three hours.

But Hanoi broadcasts in advance of the meeting made no specific mention of troop withdrawals, saying instead that problems caused by the anti-Vietnamese rioting last week would be taken up.

The reported clash was the first of any size ever reported between Cambodian troops and the thousands of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong who for years have maintained bases just across the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border to escape American and South Vietnamese attack.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from South Vietnamese military headquarters in the Mekong Delta that the fighting occurred around Nul O, a 1,600-foot mountain about three miles from the Cambodian-Vietnamese border and 125 miles west of Saigon. It is the rear base of the North Vietnamese 1st Division.

Military sources told Arnett "a considerable amount" of small arms fire was exchanged by two battalions until the shooting stopped about daylight.

There were no reports of casualties. The sources said at least 10 Cambodian tanks were known to be in the area, but they apparently did not join in the action.

Mobs of Cambodians joined in the action.

Civil Rights Attorneys Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court declined unanimously today to speed school desegregation in Charlotte, N.C., via a massive busing plan.

The court gave no explanation as it rejected a request by civil rights lawyers for reinstatement of the busing order, entered Feb. 5 by Judge James B. McMillan but stayed March 5 by an appeals court.

The rare setback for blacks, who have been consistently successful in pleas to the high court, probably means schools in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg district will not be subject to deeper desegregation this school year.

The dispute is scheduled to be argued before the U.S. Circuit Court in Richmond, Va., April 9. Judge McMillan's busing plan would have added at least 14,000 already bused to schools in Charlotte.

They would have criss-crossed the city in a school-pairing arrangement, averaging up to two and a half hours a day in transportation.

School officials had told the court they don't have the money to buy the buses that would be needed.

Prior to today's ruling, the Supreme Court has methodically cut down efforts to delay desegregation. In this term it ordered full speed ahead in 30 Mississippi districts, 14 additional Southern districts, in Oklahoma City, and last Monday in Memphis.

The NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund had accused Charlotte school officials of open defiance of desegregation orders.

Fund officials had said that unless federal district judges like McMillan are upheld on appeal there was little likelihood that the rights of black children to attend integrated schools, which were first declared by the Supreme Court in 1954, will be little more than an unrealized ideal.

The motion to reinstate Judge McMillan's busing order was presented to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger last week, since he has jurisdiction over federal courts in North Carolina.

Burger turned the request over to the entire court, which discussed the issue at a hastily scheduled secret conference last Friday. The motion was denied this morning in a one-sentence ruling.

Clark County Deadliest in February

According to figures released today by Captain Milton Mosier, Commander of the Hope District of the Arkansas State Police, Clark county recorded the highest death toll during February with 5, Little River recorded 3, Polk and Sevier counties 1 fatality each.

Mosier said troopers in the Hope District investigated 76 traffic accidents during February. Clark County reported 9 accidents followed by Columbia and Little River with 8 each, Miller 7, Howard, Lafayette, Montgomery, Pike and Sevier Counties recorded 6 each, Polk 5 and Nevada county recorded only 3 accidents during February.

Mosier said troopers cited speed as the leading cause of the traffic accidents reported. He said there were 13 alcohol related collisions.

Mosier said 52 persons died statewide, during February. The fatalities reported were the second highest in 10 years, surpassed only by February 1965 when 56 persons lost their lives. He said troopers statewide, investigated 680 accidents and cited speed and failure to yield right-of-way as the leading contributing factor of the accidents recorded.

Three Killed on State Highways

Three persons were killed on Arkansas' highways this past weekend.

The Associated Press weekend fatality count began at 8 p. m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The latest fatality was Clifford Dale Hicks, 21, of Cotton plant who was killed Sunday in a one-car accident on Arkansas 17 near Cotton Plant.

Lawrence Landrum, 46, of near Trumann was killed Saturday night when the car he was driving ran off a county road and overturned near Trumann.

Also killed Saturday was Johnny Flynn, 4, of Hot Springs, who was a passenger in a car driven by Glenda Flynn, 38, also of Hot Springs.

Police say Mrs. Flynn lost control of the car and it struck a bridge abutment.

Eudora Girl Is Killed

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Patricia Theresa Bell, 16, of Eudora, Ark. was killed in a two-car collision on Mississippi 1, near here Saturday night.

the under-40 crowd in government is making discernible waves in a distinctly unservice fashion.

Consider these news items from the past few weeks:

—Five hundred career government workers petitioned senators to reject President Nixon's 4th nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

—Eighteen hundred employees at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare demanded an accounting of Nixon administration civil rights policies from their boss, Robert H. Finch.

—More than one-third of HEW's civil rights division protested the ouster of their director, Leon E. Panetta, in a strongly worded letter to the President.

—The Labor Department faces a minor rebellion from neighborhood Youth Corps directors objecting to a 25 percent cut in money job trainees can earn.

Indeed, the uncounted thousands of young dissidents in the Washington bureaucracy are far outnumbered by the hundreds of thousands of federal employees who execute given policy each day without protest.

But the activists' loose network of organizations—such as the Federal Employees for a Democratic Society—newspapers and union groups has extended over the past three years into virtually every federal organization except the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency.

For some the issues are job discrimination, employee rights, the sale of California grapes in government cafeterias, and court suits to stop the transfer of agencies from downtown Washington to outlying suburbs.

But for others, such as Roy Morgan, head of the union local at HEW, the issues extend more broadly to the fundamental relationship of employee to program.

"We are challenging the mythical restrictions that federal employees have no right to challenge or criticize the policies or programs or the agencies," Morgan said. "You have so many hard-head bureaucrats who sit there year after year and do things they know are wrong, but they don't say anything because they are dead-end and frightened."

Dissident Bureaucrats Acting Up

By G. C. THELEN Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dissident young bureaucrats, angry over such issues as the Vietnam war and the Nixon administration's civil rights policies, are shattering the stereotype of the federal employee as a faceless civil servant.

To the increasing discomfort of their politically appointed bosses, a vocal minority among services where a man lays his life on the line," he said.

The other job is that of a fireman, and Cassese has been getting help from President Howard McClellan of the AFL-CIO International Association of Fire Fighters in efforts to set up the national policemen's union.

"We will be a policemen's union run by policemen for the benefit of policemen alone," said Cassese, who is also president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of New York.

Police Renew Drive for Union

By NEIL GILBERT
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Law officers from a number of cities will meet here this week to launch a renewed drive for a national policemen's union under an AFL-CIO charter.

"The first and foremost thing is to take the policemen out of this second class citizens' status and help him find his rightful place in the sun," said John Cassese, acting president of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers.

The union won't claim the right to strike, Cassese said in an interview, but "on the national scene, we'll seek to have collective bargaining rights. Also on the state level."

Cassese called a meeting here Friday of a founding group that met in Omaha, Neb., last November to write a proposed union charter. The Friday session will set a national convention sometime in May of police officers all over the country who want to form a nationwide union.

AFL-CIO President George Meany last year turned down a bid from Cassese's group for a national AFL-CIO charter pending a further showing of interest on a nationwide basis.

Cassese thinks the May convention will provide that showing.

Cassese also has mailed the proposed union constitution to police officers across the country.

"There's a no-strike clause in there," he said.

"Recognizing that the orderly function of society is dependent on consistent and stable law enforcement, this international union is opposed to strikes by police officers and will not engage in such strikes," the proposed constitutional provision reads.

Cassese said the proposed national union would rely on moral suasion and public opinion to negotiate better pay and working conditions for police officers, rather than strikes.

"It is incumbent on cities to make sure they deal properly with policemen. A policeman's job is unique. It is one of the only two jobs outside the armed

Settlement of Suit Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — A unanimous Supreme Court upheld today a settlement of an anti-trust suit in which the government had charged the nation's biggest auto makers with conspiring to delay and obstruct development of auto air-pollution control devices.

In a consent decree, upheld in October by Federal Judge Jesse W. Curtis of Los Angeles, the manufacturers agreed to cease the alleged illegal actions without admitting guilt to the charges.

New York City had appealed to the high court to reopen the antitrust suit, claiming if the allegations were true the auto makers had endangered the health of millions of people. But the high court declined, and without holding a hearing affirmed Judge Curtis' ruling.

The suit had been filed by the Justice Department in the closing days of the Johnson administration, and was directed against General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors and the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Last September, Richard W. McLaren, President Nixon's antitrust chief, filed the proposed consent decree in Los Angeles prohibiting the automaker and the association from obstructing development and installation of the devices.

New York City had asked the high court to reopen the case so it could intervene and present an argument that the public interest was ignored in the settlement. Both the Justice Department and the manufacturers' association opposed New York's request.

Pollution Suit Could Be Landmark

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's suit to force a Florida power company to construct safeguards against thermal pollution could become a landmark decision in man's battle to preserve the environment.

The suit against the Florida Power & Light Co. marks the first time the government has sought court action to halt possible pollution before any damage has occurred. And it focuses on nuclear power plants, a target of conservationists who fear hot water discharges will radically upset the balance of aquatic life.

The outcome will affect virtually all 15 nuclear generating plants now in operation in the United States and the scores under construction or in planning stages.

The government wants the Florida utility to modify its plans for reducing the temperature of cooling water at its Turkey Creek plant, currently being converted to nuclear power.

The company had planned to flush the artificially heated water into Biscayne Bay via a six-mile canal, stating the water will not harm the aquatic life in the bay.

This is in line with the position taken by most utility spokesmen when questioned about possible environmental damage at nuclear installations along the Great Lakes and coastal areas where there is an abundance of water.

The hot water at issue is created by the cooling process employed in most nuclear plants. Water is drawn from a bay or lake, circulated through the condensers and spewed back into the environment at temperatures ranging from 10 to 20 degrees higher.

The volume of water used by nuclear reactors is huge. It is estimated, for example, that by the end of this decade nuclear and conventional power plants will discharge 20,000 cubic feet of hot water per second into

Mutiny Ship Drops Anchor in Cambodia

By HORST FAAS
Associated Press Writer

OFF THE CAMBODIAN COAST (AP) — The American munitions ship Columbia Eagle was anchored today in Cambodian waters, 28 miles from the nearest U.S. Navy ships.

A chartered plane flew within a few miles of the 7,600-ton freighter which the Pentagon said "possibly mutinous" crewmen diverted from its course to Thailand. But the chartered plane could not go closer because the area is marked on maps as "prohibited" Cambodian territory.

The freighter's white superstructure stood out in the bright haze over the gulf of Siam. Her two forward cargo booms were in the upright stowed position, indicating that the ship was not being unloaded.

Her anchorage is 26 miles off the Cambodian coast and four to five miles southwest of the nearest land Kohn Rong Sang Legi Island, which is mostly overgrown with jungle and sparsely inhabited, with a fishing village at its southern tip.

The area in which she is lying is barred to U.S. surface vessels and aircraft, according to maps used by the U.S. Navy and Air Force.

The nearest U.S. warships were the Coast Guard cutter Mellon and the amphibious transport Denver, its high bridge bristling with radar and other electronic gear.

They are operating 28 miles south of the Columbia Eagle, just beyond the edge of the prohibited zone.

At least two U.S. turboprop Electras, loaded with electronic monitoring gear also were flying along the edges of the prohibited zone.

These ships and planes are part of the U.S. naval surveillance patrols that help to keep track of ships moving to and from the Cambodian port of Sihanoukville to the north.

Lake Michigan.

By comparison, the amount of water flowing into that lake from all tributary streams is 25,000 cubic feet per second.

This torrent of hot water could harm the delicate relationship between temperature and marine life, thus destroying aquatic life, scientists say.

"The interrelationships of species, length of daylight and water temperature are so intimate that even a small change in temperature can have far reaching effects," Kenneth N. Mackenithum and Lowell E. Keup, two Interior Department biologists, said in a paper presented to a recent power conference.

Temperature determines the species that can survive, triggers migrations and reproductive processes and stimulates or suppresses growth, the report said.
